

Sonitrol has made me feel so much safer over the years. I live alone, have had Sonitrol as my security company since 1996, and I make sure that people who might have access to my house know that “Sonitrol is listening” and that they’re local. It really puts people off – which is my goal! As a single woman living alone, my safety is a concern. I’ve never questioned that Sonitrol would take good care of me and my property. When my remodel went sideways (and my contractor made me feel unsafe) and I was living an hour away from my home, Sonitrol (at my request) called me every time my system was disarmed – even if the code disarmed the system perfectly. They even call when my smoke detectors have low batteries and are beeping. I wouldn’t do without Sonitrol in my home. They’re worth every penny.
